Reason: Gallantry in action: While on a search and destroy mission, Company A, 2d Battalion (Airborne), 502d Infantry was moving down a jungle trail when they suddenly became engaged with an estimated enemy squad to their direct front. Two men were wounded in the initial burst. At about the same time, an enemy squad in the rear of the friendly platoon began firing upon them. Private First Class Bray observed that his two wounded comredes were in an area exposed to a grossfire. With complete disregard for his own personal safety, Private Bray rushed through the vithering hall of emeny fire to his wounded comrades and pulled one of the men to a covered position. Upon the arrival of the medical aidman, . . Private Bray unhesitatingly moved back through the bullet swept area in an attempt to retrieve the second wounded man. As Private Bray neared his wounded coarede, he was fired on from a nearby enemy position. Onickly, he grabbed a grenade and charged forward throwing the grenede into the enemy position, destroying it. Refusing medical aid, Private Bray returned to his position in the perimeter and continued to fight until the enemy was forced to withdraw and flee the battle area. His actions resulted in the saving of two wounded comrades, the killing of two enemy soldiers, and the capture of one weapon.
